New York, May 21.—The noise of a const New York, May 21.—The noise of a constantly as-cending and descending freight elevator and the calls of half a score of clerks and porters nailing up boxes and trundling them hither and thither made the shipping room of Carhart, Whitford & Co. 3-clothing house a busy scene yesterday when the correspondent of the Post-Dustarcs descended into the basement at Broadway and Canal street in search of the long lost helt to a British eardom. "Is George Brummond heart," was asked of a

"You are Lord Drummond, I believe," said the reporter.

I am," said he a little surprised, but in no wise disconcerted. Fully six feet tall and splendidly built, the young scion of nobility leaned back against a pile of boxes in an attitude of easy grace. He has a finely shaped head and full, regular features, with closely cut light hair and mustache. There was nothing in the expression of his large gray eyes, or in the tones of his voice, or his manner of speaking, to suggest the least discordance in his surroundings as he chatted freely with the reporter about his remarkable and romantic history. A few weeks before the reporter had met a lady belonging to an old and respected New York family, whose name is withheld at her earnest request. This lady had been absent many years in ms desire to obtain employment in the city. Mr. Carhart verified the young boatman's story on his return to town, and soon afterwards gave him a place in the brushing department, promising to advance him as he overcame the roughness of manner and the crustiness of education which had overgrown his early character. Except while on a coasting voyage to the West Indies in a schooner, a year ago, Lord Drummond has been in the employ of Carhart, Whitford & Co. ever since divancing a little, but still half shipping cierk and is in the country of the country of the country of the country of his discovery in Long Island, which appeared in several of the physical than for menus arrived account of his discovery plained, which appeared in several of the at the time, caused his family to take a reinterest in the lost heir at the solicitation of ier, the Duke of Argyle, and of his brother, ruins of Lorne. the following on the doors: "Owing to the contained run for several days we have decided it wise for our depositors and all concerned to suspend payment for the present." There is great excitement and a large crowd surrounds the bank. Police officers have been placed at the doors.

Wm. N. Riddle, president of the Penn Bank, which was doing the largest business of any bank in Pittsburg, got up from a sick bed this morning, having been prostrated from hemforrhage, and is now at the bank, The following statement was made for the Associated Press representative:

"I have nothing to say in detail now, but am here to face the music and do my duty. Owingfto unfounded reports, made current by interested and malicious persons there has been a run on us for several days, and our deposits have been decreased from $500,000 to $70,000 in five days. We therefore deemed it wise to take the action now done. Further, I have nothing to say, except that I am individually the largest loser, having the largest deposit and the largest amount of stock in the bank. It is said that rusnors were set afloat by interested parties that the Fenn Bank and two other banks had been allowing oil brokers to overdraw their accounts, and the result was a run. One of the stockholders of the Penn Bank says the suspended institution was entirely solvent, and will pay every dollar of its debts. The Penn Bank was yesterday assisted in

The capital stock was $500,000. A full statement is promised this evening.

The Fenn Bank was yesterday assisted in MEFTING ITS OBLIGATIONS at the Clearing House by a loan of $100,000 made by the Farmers' Deposit National Bank, through which it cleared. It was hoped matters would be in better shape to-day, and that the Bank would be able to meet its paper when presented. The result was a disappointment, and the checks of the Fann Bank were returned by the Farmers' bank. As to the aggregate amount of checks thus returned, the Farmers' officials refuse to make a statement, but as the aggregate exchanges at the Clearing House were but little below those of yesterday, the total could not have been nearly as large as usual in ordinary times. The Fenn bank had out a very large amount in checks, but for some days past had fallen off greatly.

sort of transactions are those which are in this paper under the heading 1884—contracts." "What sort of transactions are those which are entered in this paper under the heading of May, 1884—contracts."

"These mean the amounts of money received for investment in this contract business, from whom received and the amount of profits to be returned to them. They mean the date of maturity. This is simply a statement of sums of money invested with us and to be returned to the investors with the profits at a certain specified time. The items which appear upon the second page represent the amounts payable in June, July, August, etc., or at the time of the expiration of the contract."

The documents were filed with the reference, and Mr. Rangs then took from the table an old and well-worn book which Mr. Ward recognized as one of those he had seen in his office.

"Now, Mr. Ward, I see throughout this book entries on the right page in black ink with red drawn through them. In whose hand-writing are the entries made?"

"It cannot say as to all the entries. Some of them are made in the hand-writing of Mr. Fish and myself, and others in that of persons strangers to me."

"Are they not entries of notes put out at some time?"

"Yes, str, I suppose so. As to the entries on page time!"

"Yes, sir, I suppose so. As to the entries on page thirty-three and thirty-four, I cannot recognize the handwriting. Mr. Fish could probably tell whether some of the entries represent the disposition of the notes. I did not make the entries in red ink on page 22. I think Mr. Fish did."
"What do the initials F. D. G. and C. K. G. mean, and what the appearance of their names in this book!"
"The initials represent Fred D. Grant and C. K. Garrison. I don't remember just why their names appear here."

It is also untrue that he used the Henderson Bridge bonds to procure funds for his own use. He did endeavor to uphold the credit of the company by sustaining the price of its stock, but the directors did not agree with him, and he made good the difference of $20,000. The floating debt of the company is more than covered by the present value of the securities held by the road. This is the whole story. The directors of the road corroborate Mr. Baldwin's statument.

THE CLOSING TO-DAY.

NEW YORK, May 21, 3 P. M.—Stocks were all strong and higher after midday. Western Union and Missouri Facilite were the features. Subsequently there was a sharp selling movement and a general decline on the announcement of the suspension of the Penn Bank of Pittsburg. At 20 clock speculation was strong and higher, and again a few shares were recorded at the best figures of the day. During the last fifteen minutes Union Pacific declined to 40 and the market became weak.

The contradiction in yesterday's Post-Disparce of the rumored failure of Russell Sage has revived interest in this very remarkable man, who has been making money in Wall street for a quarter of a century. He is a dealer in stocks who bears the reputation of having found a way whereby he can nake money out of Wall street and evade the discovered a method of hedging after selling privi-discovered a method of hedging after selling privileges which it is impossible to beat. For many years past he has confined his operations to selling puts and calls, and as a result of this and other business he is generally credited with the possession of about $\frac{1}{2}\text{Si}_1,000,000.

Mr. Sage began business about forty years ago at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where he dealt ha small way in country produce, He was thrifty, frugal and hardworking and he very soon began to lay by money.
As his capital increased he spread out his business and before he had been more than a few years employed he was doing a spiendid trade up and down the Hudson River with New York. He occasionally, during this period, dabbled in stocks, and at last,
about the beginning of the war, he moved to New York and went into stocks exclusively.
He was one of the most conspicuous figures in the excited days of the gold-room, and while he had the reputation of being a very timid dealer, he never lost money. He joined in the great deal in Frie which finally came to a head in the panic of 1873, and he was more or less intimately associated with all the large transactions of that time. He has kept in with Gould, Dillon, Field and the others who form the greatest capital syndicate in the history of finance, and while he works harmoniously with them he relies for his prodits almost entirely on his privilege business.

The privilege business of Russell Sage," methods in which he does his work, and I knew that he could not possibly have failed, as was rumored yesterday."

"Well, what caused the trouble?"

"These privileges are always bought to be used on the last day of settlement, as the holder always wants to take the chances of a fluctuation in his favor, but they can be used at any time before settlement day by giving one day's notice. Of course, it was not expected that the whole lump of privileges he had out would be presented all at once. It was enough to embarrass any one, even Russell Sage. You know among the other facts about him is, that he keeps the largest cash balance in bank of any man in America. Even his cast was exhausted in this run. As he says himself, the amount of money he has paid on puts in the last few days would smash any two ordinary banks in the country."

"There is no doubt that he is all right."

"He can't break. Those fellows who got panicky may squeeze him a little, but for any permanent danage to him, they simply can't effect it."

"What stocks was he chiefly interested in."

"What so was deeply interested in Western Union and Wabash. You might say the Gould properties throughout."

Smith, claiming to be a miner, appeared in that town a few days ago and got into the good graces of Chris Hock, a liquor dealer. He told Hock a long story of how he had come into possession of a gold brick, and took him into a grove near Higbee, and dug up a glittering bar of metal, which was borred and carved in several places. The dust was bottled and taken to Hannibal to be tested. While on the journey Smith managed by some sleight of hand movement to change the bottles containing the dust, and when put to the test was pronounced pure gold. Six thousand dollars was the price asked by the sharper, and it is believed here that Hock was fleeced for that amount.

week. A squad of police visited the residence of the Councilman from the Second Ward early this mornng before that gentleman had arisen and after surrounding his house to prevent his possible escape waited patiently till Mr. Neimes attempted to commence his day's work. About 7 o'clock Mr. Neimes left the house but had not gone twenty feet from his front gate when an officer, with a whoop and yell, jumped from his hiding place beside the fence and bounded toward the Alderman. Niemes made a boid dash for liberty, but as a sprinter he is a decided failure, and the race was short and unexciting. Neimes wriggled and tugged in the grasp of the officer, but was unable to escape, and surrounded by the squad of officers who were hiding in the meighborhood, the disconsolate Councilman was marched in triumph through the streets to the Council chamber. A Pointer for Ladies Desiring to Purchase

A Pointer for Ladies Desiring to Purchase Elegant Dresses.

The mantilla may be seen on numbers of fall shoulders, and it promises to retain its popularity for sometime. In looking around for the best silk material to make up into mantilias, ladies should not fail to call at B. Nugent & Bro.'s, 617 to 821 North Broadway, where they will find a magnificent stock of silks of all kinds, which are sold at enormously reduced prices. Among other elegant makes is the Gros de Londres, all silk, black, and just the thing for mantilias. The prices range from $1.25 to $1.50, which is very low for the splendid quality of the goods. Another very fine line of silk for general use is the Gros de Suez, which has been greatly reduced in price. The goods are exceedingly handsome add dressy. These are only a couple of items in a stock which is superb and unsurpassed in the West.

She came home and stated that she quad been much benefited by the treatment received. The next day she was unwell and she fluctuated between apparent improvement and alarming states of relapse until Tuesday, when she died. She was attended at first by Dr. Rutledge, but she husband, becoming frightened on see occasion, called Dr. Hauck, who, prior to this time, had been the family physician. On being told all of the circumstances Dr. Hauck consented to give a prescription for temporary relief, but declined to have anything to do with the case, as he saw the woman was in a hopeless state and that her allment was puerperal peritonitis. Dr. Hermann was then called, and he with Dr. Rutledge continued in attendance till death occurred. Yesterday he called upon his brokers and told them to cover his shorts and go long of matters generally for him, as the defalcation would not occur.

How Kosciusko Fell.

Prom the Philadelphia Call.

It is well known that Kosciusko fell, but very few people know what caused his fall. It happened in this way:

It was some years after the battle of Warsaw that Kosciusko and a party of friends were talking about old war times.

"Well, gentlemen," remarked Kosciusko as he ordered another round of beer, "you can talk as much as you like, but it was at Warsaw that we saw war."

Here one of the party hit him with a stone mug and Kosciusko fell, while an intimate friend of the General's by the name of Freedom shrieked.

Slavery in Oneida County.

Slavery in Oneida County.

From the Utica Observer.

Guy Johnson, who died in Clinton a few days ago, was the last relic of slavery in that region. He was born in Clinton, January, 1820. Guy's mother, at the time of his birth, was a slave to Mr. Griffin and was made free by the general emancipation act of this State in 1821. Guy Johnson was held in slavery there in Clinton until he came to be of age, working all his time, by law and necessity, as Nathaniel Griffin's bondsman, until January, 1841; and, therefore, until that time, so near to us, slavery existed right here, on the very banks of the Orishany, in full force.

AN UNCANNY PICTURE.

His Skull in a Box.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

The Southern Dental Journal of this city, is having a cut engraved of such an incredible character that it will be difficult to convince many persons of its genuineness. The photograph from which the cut is to be engraved represents an old man who is sitting for his portrait, and holding in one hand the front half of his skull.

represents an old man who is straing for his portrait, and holding in one hand the front half of his skull.

When the beholder recovers from his first astonishment and horror, the conviction forces itself upon him that the party sitting for the picture is looking with one eye, his only one, in a rather admiring way upon the fragment of skull. Beyond the old man's blindness in one eye, he seemed to be all right, with the exception perhaps, of his unusually baid head. After the reporter had gazed at this monstrosity a moment, he ventured to point out the absurdity of the picture.

"That is just where you are mistaken," said a gentleman present, "the picture is as natural as life. The man who sat for it lives near Birmingham, Ala. Some time ago, while in an epileptic fit, he fell into the fire, his head remaining there about fifteen minutes. When rescued he was so badly burned that death was thought to be inevitable. The physicians did their best, however, but in the course of time it was found that half of his skull, beginning under the eye lost in the fire and extending over the top, was loose and about to come off. A skillful dentist sawed all this portion of the skull away and preserved it as you see it in the nicture. Fortunately a thick membraneous A skillful dentist sawed all this portion of the skull away and preserved it as you see it in the picture. Fortunately a thick membraneous growth had formed under the loose skull and protected the brain. The man is living and likely to live for years. That is the whole case, and if you ever go to Birmingham you will see the only man in the world who is able to fan himself with half of his skull!"

The dazed reporter took one more look at the photograph, and hastily took his departure.

Wanting to Kick Out.

"I would die for you," she said, as she clung fondly around his neck.
"Would you, darling" he replied, clasping her tightly; and then he added under his breath: "I wish you would die for me; it would probably save me damages in a breach of promise suit."

PRO AND CON.

When ships come over the sea, my love,
Come over the shining sea,
Like maidens walking a minuet,
White-raimented daintily—
Oh, what do they bring under each white wing,
What songs do the sailors sing,
While the breezes frolic along the deep,
And the crested billows behind them sweep,
As over the sea, the shining sea,
The ships come sailing so merrily?

When ships come over the sea, my dear,
Come over the stormy sea,
The cordage creaks in the whistling winds,
And the sails flap dismally;
And the sailors swear till the raw, damp air
Is visibly tinged with the sulphurous glare,
And the seasick passengers faintly groan,
And the sea gulls scream and the wild winds moan
As over the sea, the storm-swept sea,
The ships come laboring wearily.

The Post-Disparch is beyond comparison among the evening papers of this country or of any country; it is the largest, the most complete, the most expensive, and the best worth the money it costs.

THE predictions of the editor of the Globe-Democrat that ARTHUR will be nominated, are ntitled to a great deal of weight. Even the poorest guesser is bound to guess right at some ime or another, and "MACK" has guessed wrong so often, that perhaps this is going to be his chance to hit it. ARTHUR'S BUSINESS BOOM.

have given a full report of the meeting of rich men in New York to start a business boom for ARTHUR, and it appears to have been by no means an impressive affair, FREDERICK S. Winston, the portly and picturesque president of a life insurance company, with $100,000,000 of assets, presided, and such busy B's as BLISS, BRISTOW and BEECHER did their best as orators, and the resolutions were read by HORACE RUSSELL, "a son-in-law of HENRY HILTON, and a notably handsome young representative of luck and brains," In personal appearance and so cial status it was an ideal assemblage of the particular friends of an administration of elegant leisure, of natty costumes, of recherche entertainments, of quiet, easy deportment and of negative virtues. But the voice was not the voice of the sturdy, striving business men, who keep the wheels of commerce and industry moving, and nothing was said about ARTHUR's admin ration to commend it to such men.

The whole argument in his behalf was, in effect, that he had steered clear of impeachment, that he had made some very respecta appointments, had not wrecked anything, and on the whole, had proved bimself a fair party figurehead and a "safe" man, because he had done far less mischief than was expected from his antecedents and surroundings, being the first accidental President who had abstaine from involving himself in a big political row with his own party.

Such is the faint praise with which this meeting has damned Mr. ARTHUR. Unexpectedly and hastily nominated for Vice-President to seothe the angry Stalwarts in the convention of 1880, they have since disowned him," though his nomination then was a bitter rebuke amounting almost to an outrageous in-Route conspirators, and to the collusive prose cution by which they escaped justice, constitu worse scandal than any of those which can the Republican revolt against Grantism. If it had been called to denounce the gaminers and Welchers' and confidence operators of Wall street, it would have been a praiseworthy affair. If it had as a body, demanded the purification of Wall street and the punishment of the knaws who have recently-tarmished the honor of the city it would have been a gathering worth to live in history. As a machine movement to boost the political schemes of Chester A. Arthur, it was a pairty affair and it simply brought discredit upon that much abused name.

Sr. Louis, May 21, 1884. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A few days ago Congress authorized the erection in some of the Western States of a soldiers' home, to cost a quarter of a million dollars. This outlay for buildings will necessitate the yearly expenditur of large sums of money for running the home, and the neighborhood where it is built will be great the neighborhood where it is built will be greatly benefited. The wide awake County Court of St. Louis County might do a good thing for their county by offering the Government the tract of land (100 acres) originally intended for the new Poor House at Allentown, on the Pacific and 'Frisco Railroads. The old County Court of St. Louis County before the separation of the city and county contracted for the crection of a palatial building, which was well under way when the scheme and charter called a halt on the expenditures of the people's money in that direction, but not before a large amount of costly foundations and stone work were laid up. Now, would it not be a good move to tender that land and work, at present useless and unproductive to the county, to the Government for the location of the proposed Soldiers' Home? We believe the voice of the county would encourage such action. What says the county?

By Felegraph to the Post-Disputch.

BREWSTERS, N. Y., May 21.—The marital relations of Mr. Daniel K. Townsend, a resident of the town of Patterson, in this county, a well-known poli-tician and who has been the assistant librarian of the Senate during the session of the Legislature new adjourned, session of the Legislature new adjourned, will be the subject of a trial soon to come up in the Supreme Court in New York City. The action is entitled "Mercy A. Townsend against Abigail C. Kent, who calls horself Abigail G. Townsend," and is brought by the plaintiff for $25,000 damages against the defendant for alienating the affections character more spicy than is usually the case in this kind of litigation. All the parties are well known here, and move in the highest circles of society. The scandal has been a common topic of conversation for sometime past. Mr. Townsend is about 45 years of age, handsome, and of fine figure. He is very wealthy and owns a saw mill at Carmel, in this county, in partnership with the brother of the defendant in the coming trial. As a politician he is as volatile in his attachments as the plaintiff alleges that he is in his marital relations. Last fall he was a prominent delegate to the Pulmam County Dennocratic Convention, and pledged himself to support the nominee of that convention. A few weeks laster he turned up as a delegate to the Ropublican County Convention and during the canvass supported its candidate. For this service he was rewarded by the Republicans with the position he had in the last Senate. Mrs. Mary A. Townsend, the plaintiff, is a few years younger than Mr. Townsend, and at present resides in New York City. She was originally a Miss Spencer, and comes of a prominent Maine family. The care and the wrongs she claims she has suffered have made and havoc with her former dark beauty. Her gented appearance and however, make her a very charming woman. Mrs. Abligail Townsend, or Abigail C Kent, as the plaintiff calls her, is the first cousts of Mr. Townsend. The Kent family are among the oldest and wealthiest residents of this county and their possessions are said to amount to a quarter of a million dollars. She is servers the junior of Mr. Townsend, teal in build, and her figure is of full proportions. She is a remarkably beautiful woman of the blonde type. The Mayor submitted to both houses of the Munithe statement that at the commencement of the fiscal year the cash on hawd was $481,383 32; the receipts during the year were $6,161,377 03; the expenditures, $3,889,817 59, and the balance on hand at end of the year, $738,002 76. Of the receipts the end of the year, $700,000 to. Of the receipts the principal items were $3,014,984 54 from taxes; $1,018,718 66 from licenses; $790,094 55 from water licenses, and $300,000 from loans. Of the expenses, the chief item was $1,404,936 73 for interest. Next the chief item was $1,404,838 73 for interest. Next came Public Improvements (salaries and repairs), $367,068 83; ext Police, $500,983 37; then Realth Department, $371,682 81; then Fire Department, $300,467 91. In new public work only $81,560 18 was expended, and, in operation of Water Works, $314,211 31. The estimated revenue for the current year is $4,79,164 87, of which $1,465,466 46 must be paid for interest. The importance of husbanding this fund so as to keep the expenditures within the revenue of the city is dwell upon. Yesterday's Games. The Lucas Unions met the Boston nine yeste for the first test of the series here, and played the prettiest game yet seen at the new Park. A large for the first test of the series here, and played the pretitest game yet seen at the new Park. A large audience assembled, dfawn out by the reported strength of George Wright's men, and they were not at all disappointed. Both teams did extremely hard hitting, but brilliant fielding made the score 4 to 1 in favor of the St. Louis men, all the runs being earned. Burke and Crane were the visitors' battery, and Taylor and Baker appeared for the home fam. Murnan, who was injured in Cincinnati, did not play, and Brown held down the first base for him. The Bostons scored their earned run, the first tally of the game, in the third inning. Neither side scored again until the seventh inning. Neither side scored again until the very side of the hand of burke's curves. Baker led off with a safe one over second. Buennan brought Baker in on another safe one, but was eaught trying to reach third on the hit. Whitehead hit safe over short, got around to third by hard work, and was brought in by Quinn's double-bagger to left field. Dunlap next lifted the ball over the left field fence, scoring a home run, after which nothing more in run getting was done during the pame. Base, hit St. Louis 10. Bestons 8. Errors: St. Louis 2, Bostons 7.

The Cincinnati Unions narrowly escaped defeat by the Keystones, who were defeated 7 to 6. The Cincinnati Unions were again strengthened by the appearance of Dan O'Loury at center and Powell at Irest.

The St. Louis Browns were again defeated by Toledo yesterday in their second game out of the series of three, losing it by a score of 5 to 3. The Browns were outplayed at every point, and lost through a succession of errors in the sixth inning, when Toledo scored three runs, none of which were earned. O'Neill pitched another creditable game, but was poorly supported, his opponents making but five hits, Mullane and O'Day making double-baggers. O'Neill made the longest drice of the game, for three bases. Base hits: Toledo 5, St. Louis 6.

Columbus played a magnificent game, defeating Louisville 7 to 0. Mountain pitched and was splendidly supported by Kemmler, while the fielding of the team was surprisingly fine. The sluggers lit on to Hecker for 11 single hits. The game was stubbornly contested, but Louisville was unable to score a single run.

In the League the Providence Club scored a magnificent victory, defeating New York after a hotly contested game by the score of 2 to 1. Both teams were at their best, and, though outplayed in the field and at bat, the New Yorkers made a desperate fight to win. Welch held Providence down to seven hits, which in the first eight innings were effectively bunched, yielding two earned runs. In the first inning, on a single of Hines, and a magnificent three-bag drive of the veteral Joe Start. Hines tallied, but Start was caught napping by Welch. has not been the case. In Indianapolis, the first stopping place, some of the boys began to "pour liquor down their throats," Deasley was arrested, and there seemed to be a general lack of club spirit. At Toledo, however, things seemed to be worse. In fact, the club seems to have run away from Manager Williams altogether. Two games have already been lost there, easy games which should have been won, in order to give St. Louis sufficient lead to attack the strong Eastern clubs. If the club had been what sporting men call "outlucked" this would not have made so much difference. But it is plain that the defeats were caused by want of discipline. Deasley, Quest and Dolan had a disgraceful fight in the hotel at Toledo. It is certain that Deasley was drunk, and it is alleged that Quest and Dolan were not much better. No reports from the other players have yet reached here. But the nine went out in this condition to meet the Toledo men and were out-batted, outfielded and badly beaten; of course nothing else could be expected. Manager Williams seems to be making quite a mess of things generally.

The Post-Disparcial reporter who was interviewing Mr. Hayward drew upon his imagination as strongly as possible, but could not make himself believe even for a feeting minute that he was the possessor of anything other than back board-bills, but nevertheless followed Mr. Hayward into the vanit which contained the boxes that the safe-depositors put their best stuff in. Mr. Hayward pulled out his keys and a young gentleman stepped forward, inserted a key of his own and drew back a metal covering from the key-hole. "Now, you put your key in here and pull out a long tim box. Then you step back into this room." Mr. Hayward walked out of the vanit and led the reporter into a small room filled with desks and chairs, with little stalls on one side, each containing a desk and a chair. The thing that first called our attention to this matter was the FIRDING OF $0,000 IN BONDS on one of the deaks. There they were, all tied up in a bundle, fifty bonds of $1,000 each, of the Missouri Pacific Railway issue. The name of the owner was, of course, on each bond, but any one coming in here would be just as liable to pick them up as the official who did, and to go out and realize on them. When I returned them to the owner his face was a study. He said he had never dropped anything in his life before, but they all say that. Why, we find something here every week. I reckon we have found upwards of $500,000 right in this room here. I remember a gentleman coming in here one day—a very well known man by the way and a very careful one—it was a wet, snowy day in winter—he came in here and took out his box and was engaged here for about an hour when he sent in for me. I came in here and I found him in a state of great trepidation. Said he: I don't know what on earth is the matter here. The last time I was here I had $22,000 in bonds and now I've only got $21,000. The counted them over and over and I swear there is Just look them over for me, will you? I looked them over and found there was only $31,000 there. You must have dropped one of the bonds. I suggested. Oh, no; said he; I'd never do any such thing as that. I'm too careful, We looked all around the desk and the chair and the floor and couldn't find a sight of the missing bond. The gentleman said he couldn't be mistaken. He had come in to clip the coupons and he could only find twenty-one of them. I was in something of a quandary, and I stepped over into one of those stalls where the gentleman's hat and umbrella were. My foot ancountered something soft, and stooping down I picked up a $per much soiled and bearing the marks of having been trampled upon. It was the missing bond. a puzzle to us for a number of days was that of a gentieman who came here, opened the door of his box and found that THE BOX WAS GONZ.

When he made the discovery his eyes bulged out of his head, and he was in an alarming state of excitement. "Somebody has stolen my box," he cried; somebody has got away with my box." As the box contained three or four hundred thousand dollars you may imagine how thoroughly we were alarmed. We looked at our books and found that there was a little cross alongside the gentleman's name. This cross indicated that the last time he was in he took the box away with him. We pointed this out to him and told him he had walked away with the box, but he wouldn't listen to us. The next day he came in here with his face wreathed in smiles and the missing box under his arm. Do you know what he had done? Well, the last time he had been in he took the box out, took it down to his business office, left it on his desk and departed for Europe. He was away for four months. When he returned he found his box missing. While bemoaning the loss at his office his book-keeper said: "Why, I have a box that belongs to you. You left it on your desk the day before you left for Europe, and I, not knowing what it was, put it in the safe. The book-keeper then went to the safe and pulled out the missing box. I had CONSIDERABLE PUN.

with one loser. He was one of those close, careful fellows, too, but all the same he left out on a desk bonds to the amount of $7,000. I gathered them in and the next day called on him at his office. I asked him if he owned any bonds of such and such a character; I had heard they were good, and I wanted to buy them. Well, he was away to honds? Well. I teased him a little while and then pulled out the bonds on him. He was the most surprised man you ever saw. He couldn't believe that he had been so careless. Yes, it's easy to lose things if you are not careful, concluded Mi. Hayward. "You can brush a note or bond or piece of money or jewelry of a desk with your-elbow and never notice the

CHANGED HER MIND.

Why Mrs. O'Tool Befased to Sell Her House

Barclay's court in the case of M. Olmar against M. O'Tool. The action was brought for the specific perlon avenue. Mrs. O'Tool thought she wanted to sell her homestead and offered it to Mr. Olmar for $1,000, who gave her $25 by way of earnest to bind the basgain and received from her a receipt in which she simply stated that the money was received in part payment for the sale of "her house and lot." When Mrs. O'Tool went out to milk the cow that evening, the chickens hung their heads and looked sad, the billy goat butted the fence post, and the brindle kicked over the pail of milk, all of them evidently being disgusted with Mrs. O'Tool's action in selling out the old home. She could not sleep that night, and the next day she went to Mr. Olmar and told him she had changed her mind about selling the house and lot. He had not changed his mind about by nigh, however, and brought suit to enforce the contract. Judge Barelay held that the memorandum given was too vague in its description of the land to justify a decree of specific performance, and as this writing had to be held as the sole evidence of this intent he would have to dismiss the bill. Considering the peculiar circumstances of the case, however, he thought Mrs. O'Tool should not only return Mr. Olmer his $25, but also pay the costs of the case for having changed her mind. $1,600, who gave her $25 by way of earnest to bind

A SHOP-LIFTER CAUGHT. Mary Donnelly Found Guilty-Judge Dennison's Court To-day. The case of Mary Ann Donnelly, who was arreste by Officer Wm. Barnett for having in her poss that which was supposed to have been stolen a hat which was supposed to have been stolen from B. Nugent & Co.'s, was tried this morning by Judge Dennison of the Second District Police Court. She was to be tried upon three separate charges of pilfering. When called she pleaded guilty. The case was rather of a complicated character. The first charge was that of having taken the hat. This was laid over and the second charge brought up for a hearing. In this case Mr. Miller, a representative of D. Crawford & Co.'s store, was the witness. He testified that the goods in question, a table cloth, was from the stock of Crawford's. He could not swear whether the goods had been sold or stolen. She was discharged on the evidence. The third and first cases were then submitted by Attorney Reason, who explained that a verdict of guilty was anticipated as the defendant had pleaded guilty. The Judge approved of the attorney's expectations and fined Mrs. Donnelly $10 on the first and third cases, but stayed execution from the fact that no evidence had been given in.

Wants a Divorse.

Mary A. Carter filed a suit for divorce to-day against her husband, George F. Carter, whom she charges with having had improper relations with other women and with being addicted to the con-stant use of hot and rebellious liquors whereby he was rendered incapable of making an honest living and supporting her and her child. The parties were married in 1871 and separated in 1880.

THE FESTIVAL CITY.

The Great Musical Week at Cincin nati and Its Prospects.

better satisfied with the result of his exquisite Mason-Thomas series of chamber music entertainments which first brought him into prominence, or with the crash and noise which involves the lung and muscle power of several hundred instrumentalists and choristers. But Thomas is an apostic of Wagner and Wagner requires strength in his work—and generally gets it. A festival prospect does not alarm me any more; it is pleasant as a rule, and I rather enjoy the prospect of seeing a great many and different kinds of people together. Very few people from the cities attend festivals, and provincials are always unique and interesting. As for the stage and its work it is of about the same order of attraction to LHOMME BLASE as is a big convention. A big sermon a la Spurgeon or Talmage, or a big noise or fuss of any kind. It is exciting, grand, blood-stirring—but, if I had mychoice of hearing any one of the performances during the Cincinnati festival I would by all odds make it that of Thursday evening, when the Beethoven night will furnish the music lovers with their harmony, the march and chorus from "Ruins of Athens," the exquisite "Leonora" overture, the aria, "Ah! Perfido" and the trio, "Tremate empi tremate;" the minnet and finales' from the quartet; the minnet and finales' from the quartet; the minnet and finales' from the quartet; the minnet and finales' from the quartet in C No. Q, rnd. the grand hinth symphony will make it an interesting event, and I venture to say that if the audience is not large, it will, at least, be appreciative, and the singing of Mme. Nilsson, Herr Winkelmann, Herr Emili Scaria, Miss Emma Juch, Miss Emily Winant, Franz Remmertz and the glorious orchestra will make amends for the absence of Materna.

On boarding the train at the Union Depot—I was a little late—I was a trifle surprised that there were not more people going over. I had a lower berth, and judged that in consideration of the frouble I had in getting it, that quite a number must have backed out of the Musical Festival and reserv dergartens This Morning.

The May festival at the Webster Kindergarten Eleventh and Clinton streets, was held this morning and the interesting exercises were largely attended The room was elaborately decorated by festoons and The room was elaborately decorated by festoons and clusters, and over 300 pot-flowers scented the air. The May-pole was a fine piece of floral construction and was composed of numerous varieties of wild and tame flowers. Seventeen songs were rendered by the children, of whom ninely-eight took part. The games, some eighteen in number, produced a most interesting spectacle, the animated little flyures in white dancing around in various pretty evolutions. One of the most enjoyable scenes was "The Garden Bed," in which each child, just before changing into a butterfly, held a bunch of posies, in representation of the opening of the petals at sunrise. Addresses were made in conclusion by Mr. M. W. Miller and Miss Dorn. In the afternoon the same programms was repeated at the performances of Miss. Dorn's Kindergarten, in which seventy-five children participated. Similar festivities were induged in at the Clay School, where there was also a large number present.

EXPOSURE TO DRAFTS WHEN HEAVED, and the sudden changes in the temperature of the atmosphere, are prolific sources of severe Colds, from which many cases of Indammation of the Lungs, Pleurisy, Asthma, and other Pulmonary Affections are developed. A Protective Tariff Wanted.

Chicago, May 21.—The representatives in attendance upon the National Industrial Congress began their session here this forenoon. The attendance is light, only forty-two delegates being present. T. D. Curtis of Syracuse, N. Y., was elected temporary chairman. On taking the chair he delivered an address in strong advocacy of protection, as opposed to free trade, and declared the salvation of American industries resided on their making a common fight against the advocates of free trade, irrespective of political party lines. The majority of delegates present represent the best sugar, sorghum, jute, flax and salt industries and will urge upon the National Republican and Democratic Conventions the necessity of protection laws to prevent their destruction.

A Heroine of the Windlass.

From the Fle Lake Comet.

About five miles from this village, on the 24th ultimo, the little five-year-old boy of A. Lederson was at play turning the windlass at the well, while Carrie, a girl of 14, was preparing the evening meal, her mother being away. Like a dutiful girl she kept an eye on her little brother, who was left in her charge. Happily she looked just in time to see the heels of the little fellow go over the well curb into the well. Quick as thought she flew to the well, and, seising the well-rope, which was fortunately unwound from the windlass, she threw herself into the well and down she went like electric fluid conducted by a lightning-rod. The child was still immersed head first in the water. The brave girl caught him by the collar and drewhim above the water, and, as soon as the rescued child could get his breath, he looked up, without much excitement, and said: "Carris, did you fall into the well, too?"

Just then, at the right time, Mr. Alexander and Mr. Weaver came along, and, by the use of rope and ladder, the two were rescued from their perilous position in safety. The child's head was somewhat cut by the fall, but he was was not seriously injured. By the firm grip to the rope in sliding down into the well the girl sustained a severe injury in the right hand, and is disabled of the use of it at present, but it is hoped she will recover.

A Feeling Tribute to Woman's Courage.

A singularly dramatic incident occurred it to Buperior Court-room at Waynesboro during the trial of the Rogers brothers for the killing occurred at McBean's Station in October last. Eminent counsel had been engaged by the prosecution and defense, for both parties were prominent and wealthy. The evidence closed and the speaking began Friday morning, continuing all during the day. When the court assembled after tea the seats and the aisles within the bar were crowded with ladies, while without a dense throng of men filled up the auditorium. It was before this assembly that Mr. Twiggs began his argument. Twiggs is an eloquent speaker, practiced in and noted for his oratorical graces. In the course of his three-hours' address he at one time referred in the most feeling manner to the courage and devotation of women. The hour, the occasion, the audience and the dim light from which the rapt faces were bent upon him, all combined to form a surrounding well calculated to inspire the orator to his greatest effort. He closed his address upon the women as follows:

"At the battle of Gettysburg General Pickett was ordered to begin the charge which was to make him famous. As he went into the terrible battle his young bride on horseback followed him. When the hall of death was beating down men on all sides and the plunging shot and shell mingled their fierce screams with the means and crise of the mangled, Pickett suddenly found himself in the presence of his wife. In an agony of fear for her safety he cried out to her, as she sat oool and collected as a veteran, Go back! "Go back! For God's sake go back to the rear!" No, 'replied the devoted woman, 'in the hour of danger a wife's place is by her husband's side."

At this moment through the court-room there rang out one wild, thrilling cry which nearly lifted the excited throng to its feet. It was the old robel yell, heard upon a hundred battle-fields and never to be forgotten. A deep silence followed. All eyes were turned toward the ou

THE STAGE.

Kate Castleton Married to Harry Phillips.

The many admirers of Miss Kate Castleton, "Bonny Kate," who has been the bright particular star of Rice's Surprise party for the past three scasons, will be pleased, or will regret, according to the state of their feelings, to learn that last week in San Francisco, she was married to Mr. Harry Phillips, the business manager of the troupe. The company is playing at the Bush Street Theater, where Miss Castleton made her greafest hit three years ago, and where she is always a reigning favorite. The marriage was celebrated quietly and without any unusual notice. The groom, Mr. Phillips, is one of the most successful theatrical managers in the country. He was for three years Mr. Keene's advance manager, and much of that tragedian's success was due to the sagacity of Phillips. Mr. Phillips was afterward with Stetson's "Confusion." He had charge also of the Royal Troupe of Japanese. When M.B.Leavitt engaged Rice's Surprise Party in Chicago after it lift this city he sent it to the Pacific slope under the management of Mr. Phillips. It was on this tour that the attachment which culminated in the wedding was formed. Mr. Phillips is Miss Castleton's second husband, and the relation of this fact will no doubt bring to the minds of Miss Castleton's Triends recollections of the dreadful experience she hid with her first. Miss Castleton is an English girl, and she made her debut on the stage in a London music hall. When she arrived in this country she was engaged by Josh Hart as a singer of comic songs and was given a salary of $75 a week. Her success was immediate and insting. She became a great favorite, was nicknamed "Dashing Kate" and had at her feet a score of New York swells. Her salary was doubled and she was held at the theater until one day she surprised everybody with the announcement that she was about to retire from the stage. Conjecture as to her motive developed the fact that with being an accomplice of the man whose picture in the pointed out, and in which she recognized the face of her husband. She learned then for the first time that the man she had married was a heavy bank forger, and that his name instead of the husband she had married was a heavy bank forger, and that his name instead of mind may be imagined when she was told that she would have to leave the hotel, and when, shortly afterward, she was turned with her child into the street. She managed to get back to New York, however, and, once there, devoted every energy to the amelioration of her husband's condition. He was sentence to Sing Sing, and to Sing Sing she went also. All her personal property, her furs, a dresses and jewelry, were sacrificed for funds. In order to be with her husband and to furnish him luxuries, she washed, sewed, and did all kinds of menial work. At last he was released. But the man had become a brute. From the moment of his release until she left him his conduct was brutal and vile. The baby died, and left alone she returned to the stage, going with the Fun on the Bristol party at $40 a week. She made an engagement with E. E. Rice, who took her into the Surprise Party at a salary of $75 per week which was rapidly increased to $300 a week. Then her reputation became general. She was acknowledged the leading soubretie in the comic opera line in the country. Six months ago she procured a divorce from the man Clayton or Riley. Her friends will all wish her every happiness in her new relation.

Summer Season at Uhrig's. The summer season at Uhrig's Cave begins on the evening of Monday, June 2. The favorite Ford Con pany has been engaged for the greater part of the season, and will give a series of light operas, some new and some familiar to the Uhrig's Cave clies new and some familiar to the Uhrig's Cave clientelle. The company this year will consist of Misses Hattie Richardson and Blanche Chapman, sopranos; Miss Eva Veralins, contraito; Miss Carrie Wentworth, mezzo-soprano; Miss Emma Taylor, alto; Mr. George Paxton, light comedy and barytone; Mr. Walter Hampshire, tenor; Mr. Louis Raymond, barytone; Mr. William Rochester, basso, and the old-time favorite Mr. George Denham, comedian. There will be twelve handsome chorus girls, this is positively assured. The repertoire of the company consists of "The Princess of Trebizonde," Neil Gwynne, ""Merry War," Grand Duchesse, ""Three Black Cloaks," "Les Bavards" and "Fatintza. "The opening opera will be announced in a few days. All of the above operas will be produced during the season.

day night with the very best people in the city. There will be swell ushers in evening dress, ladies in fashionable attire and children in fancy dress present. Over ninety children will take part in the play, which will be under the direction of Prof. Jacob Mahler. The entertainment is for the benefit of the

On the same evening the young ladies of the undergraduate department of Washington University will produce the "Rudens" of Plautus in the original Latin, at Memorial Hall, Nineteenth and Locust streets. There will be a great charm about this production in the concealment of their identity by the young ladies taking part, and the interest of the cultured will lie in the correct costuming of the characters, the seenery and appointments. Librettos will be sold at a very nominal price, merely enough to defray the expense of their printing. The entertainment is decidedly a novel one, and there is no doubt that the hall will be crowded.

The next musical event of any importance to the St. Louis public will be the grand Wagner concerts to be given under the direction of Theodore Thomas at the Olympic Theater, Monday and Tuesday evenings, June 2 and 3, and a Tuesday matinee. The three principal artists will be Frau Materna, soprano; Herr Winkelmann, tenor, and Herr Scaria, basso, and they will be assisted by Miss Emma Juch, soprano; Miss Emily Winant, contralito; Mr. Theodore Toedt, tenor, and Mr. Frank Remmerts, baritone. The choruses will be rendered by the St. Louis Choral Society, 200 voices strong, under the control of Joseph Otten. There will be an orchestra of sixty musicians. It may easily be seen, therefore, that the concerts will be of great strength and admirably carried out. Certainly no better opportunity could be given lovers of the Wagner school to hear such a varied programme of the work of their beloved composer, than will be offered in these concerts. The programme for the first evening includes selections from "Tannhaeuser," "Die Walkure" and "Siegfried." At the matinee Beethoven's Symphony, Pastorate will be rendered; Frau Materna will give a recitative and aria, "Abscheulicher" from "Fidelio"; and selections from "Die Meistersinger" and "Flying Dutchman" will be given. On the last evening Beethoven's Symphony, No. 5, "Die Meistersinger" and the "Goetterdaemerung." The sale of season tickets begins to-morrow morning at the Olympic box office.

"I am glad," he said, "that Col. Mapleson ha sailed with money in his pocket. Those fellow in New York tried to get all he had, but they didn't succeed. Just because it happened to be in pocket, they wanted to clean him out."

season" "Well, he left New York with just about $63,000 to his credit and he deserved every cent of it. I tell you he was in trouble several times, but he never showed it. Any one to meet him would think that his pockets were stuffed with cash. How much do you suppose he had when he left St. Louis? A 25-cent piece, a couple of buttons and some tooth-nicks would have included about all the valuables picks, would have included about all the valuables he had in his pocket when he boarded the train for the West. At least, that is all he could show up. He was on the flat of his back and laboring under troubles that would have crushed any other man, but I tell you he made it up in the West. I never saw such a rush as there was in San Francisco. The people were fairly wild and would pay anything for sats. I have trusted Mapleson when things looked pretty dark, and he never has failed to plank up like a man when he got the money. Patti carried away just $300,000 as her pay for the season."

(uticura | "How Use Doth Breed a Habit in a Man."

Thus has Shakspeare aptly written, for naught else than "habit" would induce a man to be measured for a suit to order at $45 when we can give him as good, if not better material, with far more style, at $25 a suit. This is a well-known fact and hundreds of our customers have convinced themselves of its truth. The extra charge for merchant talloring is the trouble and expense of manufacturing a single suit and the fancy prices paid jobbers for the material.

If you have not allowed your opinions to petrify, come in some day and let us show you what we are doing. Our latest reductions will surely interest you. In consequence of the decline in the raw material we have marked down a splendid Frock Suit, made of imported cerk-screw and trimmed in a superior manner, the price at which we started them this spring (and considered very cheap) was $30. You can now buy one for $25 and we will leave it to you whether this is not a R-A-R-E B-A-R-G-A-I-N.

Extra Fine Suits, made exclusively of Imported Fabrics in the most Fashion-able Colors and cut in the very latest Styles, at $30,$33,$35,$35,$27,$40,$45 and $50.

The above, you'll observe, is a wide range of prices, including, as it does, every grade, from the low and medium qualities to as rich and elegant as any gentleman would wish to wear. We're fully aware that there's loads of "stuff" being offered for sale about town that the sellers call Clothing. Should you be allured into such places let YOUR eyesight and judgment decide if it's worth taking home—even at any price. There is no other store in St. Louis that names LOWER, if as LOW prices. There is no other store in St. Louis that sells as FINE and GOOD-FITTING Clothes. There is no other store in St. Louis whose manner of dealing is as liberal. Hence, if you would prefer SOLID YALUE in return for your money, and an appropriate, practical and LIBERAL GIFT in addition, for which, mark you, no charge is made either directly or indirectly, call at the northeast corner of Broadway and Pine street.
